

Amanda is a strategic communications professional, working in the procurement space. In her current role, Amanda manages marketing programs, working with the Bonfire team to create thought provoking, engaging and helpful content for procurement leaders.