

Amber Ferguson

*Chief, Data Analytics and Integration Office,
U.S. Army Combat Capabilities Development
Command (DEVCOM)*

Amber currently serves as the Chief of the Data Analytics and Integration Office for the U.S. Army Combat Capabilities Development Command (DEVCOM) Headquarters, Human Resources Office. Her responsibilities include but are not limited to: managing/maintaining data solutions; consolidating disparate data sources and building reports/dashboards visualizations for data-driven decision making; and enabling implementation of strategic initiatives through automation of processes and development of performance metrics.

Amber began her career as a High School Mathematics teacher prior to government service. Once transitioning to Department of the Army within the DEVCOM enterprise as an Operations Research Analyst, Amber worked in a multitude of functional areas, to include logistics, strategic planning, and program management.
