Dr. Barry A. Zulauf is the Chief of the Solutions Group in ODNI, and the Executive Secretary for the National Intelligence Analysis Board and National Intelligence Collection Board. He is the Analytic Ombudsman for the Intelligence Community (IC), the primary advocate for analytic objectivity across the IC.

He provides executive oversight to Community-wide analytic training programs, leading a $12 million dollar five year contract for Analysis 101 and 201 and related courses.

Dr. Zulauf was the Chief of Analytic Integrity and Standards (AIS), in (ODNI), evaluating analysis across the IC, as envisioned in the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Protection Act. Zulauf was the first ODNI Chair on the faculty of the National Intelligence University from 2012 - 2015. He created and was the founding Director of the “Gold Standard” Leadership and Management in the Intelligence Community Graduate Certificate and was elected Chairman of the Faculty Senate for 2014-15.

From December 2011 to June 2012 Zulauf was the Director of Policy and Plans, in the Office of the Assistant DNI for Human Capital (ADNI/HC). From December 2010 to November 2011 he was Special Assistant for Transition Planning to the Assistant DNI for Human Capital. He negotiated and planned the transition of approximately $50 million per year in education, recruitment, language training, lessons learned, and historian programs from the ODNI to other elements of the Intelligence Community.

Prior to November 2009, Zulauf served as the Deputy Chief of the Office of National Security Intelligence (NN), the 16th member of the United States Intelligence Community. From 1996 to 2002 he was DEA’s Congressional Liaison for National Security. He was Assistant Director of Naval Intelligence [Legislative Liaison] from 1993 to 1996. In 1992-1993 he was Military Legislative Assistant to Representative Norman Sisisky, Chairman of the House Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee.

Commander Zulauf retired in October 2013 with a direct commission as an intelligence officer in the United States Naval Reserve. He volunteered for 7 months in active duty 2007 as the Chief of Insurgent Targeting for NATO’s International Security Assistance Force in Kabul, Afghanistan.

Dr. Zulauf is currently Adjunct Professor of Intelligence, Mercyhurst University, Adjunct Professor in the Intelligence Analysis Program at James Madison University, Instructor in Applied Intelligence at Georgetown University. Zulauf graduated from Wittenberg University [Political Science-History], and earned a Master's of Arts [Comparative Politics] and Doctorate [International Relations] from Indiana University, a Master's of Science [Strategic Intelligence] from the Joint Military Intelligence College and a Diploma from the Naval War College.
