

Col George R. Nagy is the Chief, Space Support to Operations Division, Pentagon, Washington D.C. He is a fully-qualified joint specialty officer.

During his career, Colonel Nagy has held a variety of leadership positions in intercontinental ballistic missile operations, training and evaluation, space system developmental and operational testing, and space/nuclear policy and strategy development. Currently he leads a 20-person multi-service team advising senior Department of Defense leaders on critical U.S. space capabilities, plans, policies and acquisitions.