

Darren Pulsipher

Chief Solution Architect for Public Sector at Intel

Darren has a unique ability to bring technology, people and processes together to effect transformation in organizations' data strategies. Darren focuses on Data Transformation through Data Architectures, Workload Migration, Cloud Native Application Development, Service Orchestration, and Hybrid Cloud Data Center Architectures. He holds several patents in Cloud and Grid computing and has written books and published articles on system architecture and software development.