Edwin communicates with international leaders in cyber security, cyber forensics and cyber law enforcement, across the world. Taking best-practices for threat mitigation from the industry's finest CISOs and from police and military cyber command, Edwin's responsibilities include sharing cyber defense tactics with media, government agencies and enterprise corporations, via keynotes, panel discussions & as the editor of the blog CyberTalk.org

Edwin's unconventional background in education allows him to clearly explain technical topics to a diverse audience. With over 20 years of cyber security experience, Edwin holds a unique understanding of the security risks and challenges that organizations must overcome.