

David Ortega is a Principal Solutions Architect in the Thales Digital Identity and Security Group. He has been a cybersecurity professional for more than 20 years with deep expertise in digital innovation utilizing modern cloud, data, and security solutions. David has had the pleasure of working with various industry leaders in government, higher education, finance, healthcare, and manufacturing services. His highly sought-after expertise is in security advisory services, architecture and solutions engineering, and digital transformation data-centric solutions that drives business value and manages risks.