

Harrison Smith is the Deputy Chief Procurement Officer in the Office of the Chief Procurement Officer at the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). He is responsible for all acquisition programs and contractual commitments for equipment, supplies, and services for IRS and Treasury Departmental Offices.

Prior to joining the IRS, Harrison served in various roles at the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and Naval Sea Systems Command and has 15 years of operational procurement experience.

Harrison holds a B.A. in International Relations and a M.A. in US Foreign Policy from The American University, and a M.B.A. from George Washington University. Currently, Harrison is focusing on creating a repeatable and flexible structure for deploying innovative processes to support the government's contracting needs, especially in the area of intelligent automation.