Rick Kryger
Deputy Chief Information Officer

Rick Kryger is a leader and manager with over 20 years of experience in information technology systems development, maintenance, and operations for the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). Currently, he serves as the Deputy Chief Information Officer (DCIO) for Operations in the Office of the Chief Information Officer (OCIO).

As DCIO, Rick Kryger heads the IT initiative for shared services across DOL's agencies, particularly the Office of Safety and Health Administration and the Mine Safety and Health Administration. His role in the shared services initiative is to translate the technological needs of each agency and match them to enterprise-wide IT solutions currently in use. He also is responsible for building relationships across agencies.

His previous role at DOL involved being the Director of Survey Processing for the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In that role, he was responsible for overseeing 13 statistical and administrative data processing systems.
