

Tina Sung

Vice President, Partnership for Public Service

Tina Sung is the Vice President for Federal Executive Networks at the nonprofit, nonpartisan Partnership for Public Service. In this role, she leads the design, development and implementation of the Ready to Govern® initiative to onboard new political appointees and accelerate their understanding of how to get things done in Washington. She also oversees a portfolio of activities designed to enable leaders to restore trust in government. She hosts the Assistant Secretaries for Administration and Management Roundtable and the Federal Human Capital Collaborative, peer communities where leaders share and learn from one another with the goal of transforming the way government works through innovation and strengthening policy. She works extensively at the political-career interface and brings to the Partnership years of multi-sector executive leadership experience, as well as a track record of innovation and accomplishment in every phase of her professional career. Her government experience includes key senior executive service positions in the Department of Health and Human Services, the Social Security Administration and as Executive Director of the Federal Quality Institute at Treasury.

She is the immediate past president and CEO of the American Society for Training and Development (ASTD, now known as the Association for Talent Development), the world's leading association of professionals specializing in workplace learning and performance with 70,000 members from more than 100 countries connected through 150 chapters.

Tina is a Certified Association Executive and a National Academy of Public Administration Fellow. She serves on the boards of Gazelles and the Society for Human Resources Management Foundation where she co-chairs the Thought Leadership/Research to Practice Committee. Tina is a 2015 Federal 100 winner - the leaders from government, industry and elsewhere in the federal IT community who had the greatest impact in 2014 – for her work on Shared Services.

Tina graduated cum laude from Princeton University and later completed Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government Program for Senior Managers and the Federal Executive Institute's Leadership and Management Program. She was also a participant in the prestigious President's Executive Exchange Program sponsored by the White House. She is currently pursuing her Masters of Business Dynamics.
