

At The Government Services Agency (GSA), Four Career Republican Operatives Are Obstructing The Presidential Transition Process, Putting Our National Security At Risk.

SUMMARY: Under federal law, the Government Services Agency (GSA) must “ascertain” the winner of a presidential election to trigger a “flow of government resources” to a president-elect for use in the transition process. Despite major television networks, US senators and several world leaders acknowledging Joe Biden’s status as president-elect, Trump’s GSA says that “an ascertainment has not yet been made,” which has prevented the Biden Transition Team from accessing these resources.

Accountable.US has uncovered evidence that four senior GSA officials, including Administrator Emily Murphy, Deputy Administrator Allison Brigati, General Counsel Trent Benishek, and Chief of Staff Robert Borden all have significant records as Republican operatives, calling into question whether the resources necessary for the presidential transition are being withheld due to partisan political reasons.

Emily Murphy, the head of GSA, got her start as a Republican National Committee \(RNC\) staffer who later worked under Senator Jim Talent – a prominent Trump supporter – on Capitol Hill. Murphy’s tenure at GSA has been marked by scandal after she “improperly” ignored the constitutional questions surrounding the Trump Organization’s lease of DC’s Historic Post Office building, and gave potentially “misleading” congressional testimony on Trump administration interference in the relocation of FBI headquarters.

Deputy Administrator Allison Brigati, who is responsible for “managing GSA’s coordination effort during the presidential transition,” has a deep personal and professional history with the RNC. While a lawyer for the Party in 1996, Brigati appeared on ABC’s 20/20 to do damage control in response to a video exposing racist behavior at RNC headquarters and a related \$21.5 million discrimination lawsuit. Brigati, whose father served a historically-long tenure as RNC Chairman during the Reagan administration, has maintained her partisan political leanings well into the 2020 presidential election, liking several tweets that have disputed the need for political healing, called the media a “collection of liars,” and argued that the press should not hold officials accountable.

Agency General Counsel Trent Benishek – nephew and longtime campaign staffer to former Republican Congressman Dan Benishek – only moved to his role as General Counsel at GSA on October 29, 2020, just five days before the presidential election. Previously, Benishek worked in the White House Counsel’s Office, and appears to have worked on President Trump’s defense team during impeachment proceedings.

GSA Chief of Staff Robert Borden has had an extensive career working for House Republican leadership and committees. Borden served as the House Oversight Committee Republicans’ “primary staff liaison with House leadership and the administration,” and helped lead the Select Committee on Benghazi during its highly partisan investigation. He also directed oversight efforts for House Republican leadership. While at GSA, Borden was probed by the agency’s Inspector General about contradictory statements officials made about the controversy over the relocation of the FBI headquarters.

The fact that four Republican Party operatives have influence over whether President-elect Biden gains access to the necessary resources for the presidential transition presents a clear conflict of interest, and puts our national security at risk during a global pandemic.

GSA Administrator Emily Murphy, Who Can Single-Handedly Delay The Presidential Transition, Has Built A Reputation Of Defending Trump In High-Profile Scandals Over His D.C. Hotel And The Location Of The FBI Headquarters.

Trump-Appointed GSA Administrator Emily Murphy Has Refused To Issue An Official Acknowledgement That Donald Trump Has Lost The 2020 Presidential Election, Delaying Access To Critical Federal Resources And Personnel To The Incoming Administration.

As Of November 8, 2020, GSA Administrator Emily Murphy—A Trump Appointee—Refused To Sign An Official Acknowledgment That Donald Trump Lost The 2020 Presidential Election, Delaying The Transition Process. “A Trump administration appointee is refusing to sign a letter allowing President-elect Joe Biden’s transition team to formally begin its work this week, in another sign the incumbent president has not acknowledged Biden’s victory and could disrupt the transfer of power. The administrator of the General Services Administration, the low-profile agency in charge of federal buildings, has a little-known role when a new president is elected: to sign paperwork officially turning over millions of dollars, as well as give access to government officials, office space in agencies and equipment authorized for the taxpayer-funded transition teams of the winner. It amounts to a formal declaration by the federal government, outside of the media, of the winner of the presidential race.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, [“A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

- The GSA’s Acknowledgement Releases Federal Resources To The Incoming Administration, Including Computer Systems, Office Space, And Officials. “By declaring the ‘apparent winner’ of a presidential election, the GSA administrator releases computer systems and money for salaries and administrative support for the mammoth undertaking of setting up a new government — $9.9 million this year. Transition officials get government email addresses. They get office space at every federal agency. They can begin to work with the Office of Government Ethics to process financial disclosure and conflict-of-interest forms for their nominees. And they get access to senior officials, both political appointees of the outgoing administration and career civil servants, who relay an agency’s ongoing priorities and projects, upcoming deadlines, problem areas and risks.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, [“A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

The Trump Administration Had “No Immediate Plans” To Sign The Acknowledgement Letter, Potentially Leading To “The First Transition Delay In Modern History,” Except For The Disputed 2000 Presidential Election. “But by Sunday evening, almost 36 hours after media outlets projected Biden as the winner, GSA Administrator Emily Murphy had written no such letter. And the Trump administration, in keeping with the president’s failure to concede the election, has no immediate plans to sign one. This could lead to the first transition delay in modern history, except in 2000, when the Supreme Court decided a recount dispute between Al Gore and George W. Bush in December.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, [“A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

Emily Murphy Has Built A Reputation Of Defending Donald Trump In High-Profile Controversies Over His D.C. Hotel’s Lease In A Federally-Owned Building And Plans To Relocate The FBI Headquarters.

Emily Murphy’s Four Years As GSA Administrator Have “Been Marked By Several Controversies Involving The President,” Including Trump’s Lease In A Federally Owned Building For His Washington D.C. Hotel And A Potential Consolidation Of The FBI Headquarters. “The decision has turned attention to

Murphy, whose four-year tenure has been marked by several controversies involving the president, an unusually high profile for an agency little known outside of Washington.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, “[A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

- Controversies In Which Emily Murphy Has Defended Donald Trump Include His Company’s D.C. Hotel Lease In A Federally-Owned Building And The “Planned Consolidation Of The FBI Headquarters.” “But under Trump, two issues of personal importance to the president became almost constant sources of controversy for her: the lease Trump’s company holds with the agency for its D.C. hotel, located in the federally owned Old Post Office Pavilion, and the planned consolidation of the FBI headquarters.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, “[A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

GSA’s Inspector General Said Emily Murphy “Improperly” Ignored The Constitutional Controversy Over The Federal Lease For Trump’s D.C. Hotel And That She Gave “Incomplete” And Possibly “Misleading” Congressional Testimony That Failed To Mention She Met With Trump About The Nearby FBI Headquarters.

Under Emily Murphy, GSA Repeatedly Refused To Provide Information For A Congressional Investigation Into The Constitutionality Of Trump’s D.C. Hotel Lease—GSA’s Inspector General Said The Agency ““Improperly”” Ignored The Constitutional Questions Surrounding The Lease.

Under Emily Murphy, GSA Repeatedly Refused To Produce Documents To Congressional Investigations Concerning How The Agency Allowed Trump’s D.C. Hotel To Keep Its Federal Lease Despite Constitutional Concerns. “Both projects have pressed Murphy into duty defending the president, and her actions elicited criticism from the agency’s watchdog as well as from congressional Democrats. Democrats held repeated hearings to get a better explanation of how the agency decided to allow Trump to keep the lease given that the Constitution bars presidents from accepting gifts or payments from foreign governments, which often patronize the hotel. Under Murphy, the GSA repeatedly declined to provide documents to House Democrats, including the monthly income statements it receives from Trump’s company.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, “[A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

In 2019, The GSA’s Inspector General Said The Agency ““Improperly”” Ignored The Constitutional Concerns Over The D.C. Hotel Lease. “Last year, the agency’s inspector general determined that GSA ‘improperly’ ignored those concerns in allowing Trump’s company to keep the lease. GSA defended itself by saying that the investigation ‘found no undue influence, pressure or unwarranted involvement of any kind by anyone.’” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, “[A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

The GSA’s Inspector General Found Emily Murphy Gave “Incomplete” And Potentially “Misleading” Congressional Testimony After She Failed To Mention She Met With Trump And White House Officials About GSA’s Controversial Decision To Cancel The FBI Headquarters Move.

Donald Trump And The GSA “Abruptly Canceled” Plans To Move The FBI Headquarters From A Site Near Trump’s D.C. Hotel, Sparking Allegations That Trump Was Trying To Block A Competing Hotel

From Being Built On The Former FBI Site. “Trump has personally intervened in the most prominent real estate project in the agency’s entire portfolio: the plan to build a new FBI headquarters that would allow the bureau out of the crumbling and insecure J. Edgar Hoover Building. During his first year in office, Trump and the GSA abruptly canceled a bipartisan plan to build a new suburban headquarters for the agency, infuriating Democrats who had worked more than a decade on the project and who alleged that Trump canceled the project so a competing hotel could never be built in place of the Hoover building, a site down the street from his hotel.” Lisa Rein, Jonathan O’Connell and Josh Dawsey, [“A little-known Trump appointee is in charge of handing transition resources to Biden — and she isn’t budging,” The Washington Post, 11/08/20]

Congressional Democrats Said The Cancellation Violated Regulations Meant To Prevent Political Influence Over Federal Projects. “President Trump intervened in a big federal building project to help protect business for his hotel on Pennsylvania Avenue, a group of House Democrats alleged on Thursday. [...] The Democrats called that an abuse of power and a violation of the regulations that are supposed to protect such arrangements from political influence.” Philip Ewing and Peter Overby, [“Trump Intervened In FBI HQ Project To Protect His Hotel, Democrats Allege,” NPR, 10/18/18]

In August 2018, GSA’s Inspector General Found That Emily Murphy “May Have Misled Congress” In Failing To Disclose That She Met With Donald Trump To Discuss The FBI Headquarters Project. “Now the inspector general of the GSA says in a report that the head of the agency, Emily Murphy, may have misled Congress. During a hearing, she failed to disclose that she had met with President Trump at the White House to discuss the FBI project.” Brian Naylor, [“Government Watchdog Raises Questions About Trump’s Decision Not To Move FBI,” NPR, 08/28/18]

The Inspector General’s Report Said, “We Found That Murphy’s Congressional Testimony Was Incomplete And May Have Left The Misleading Impression That She Had No Discussions With White House Officials In The Decision- Making Process About The Project.” [“Review of GSA’s Revised Plan for the Federal Bureau of Investigation Headquarters Consolidation Project,” U.S. General Services Administration Office of Inspector General, 08/27/18]

Congress Demanded Answers From Emily Murphy And Others Following Revelations That Trump Administration Officials Gave Contradictory Testimony About A Controversial GSA Merger That Was Seen As A Potentially Illegal Effort To Strip Protections From Civil Service Workers.

July 2020: Congress Demanded That Emily Murphy Give Answers Following Revelations That Trump Administration Officials Gave Contradictory Testimony About A Controversial Merger Between GSA And The Office Of Personnel Management, Which Was Seen As An Effort To Undermine Civil Service Worker Protections.

July 2020: House Oversight Committee Members Demanded Answers From The Trump Administration After They Learned That The GSA And Office Of Personnel Management Were Planning A Merger, In Contradiction To Congressional Testimony That Administration Officials Had Given. “Democratic leadership on the House Oversight and Reform Committee wants answers from senior Trump administration officials after the Project on Government Oversight reported that a copy of notes they obtained from an April 2019 call contradicted testimony officials had given about the planned merger of the Office of Personnel Management and the General Services Administration.” Jessie Bur, [“Trump officials made ‘misleading’ statements about changes to federal worker management, watchdog says,” Federal Times, 07/07/20]

The House Oversight Committee Requested That GSA Administrator Emily Murphy And Then-GSA Counsel Mark Robbins Give Transcribed Interviews To Explain The Contradictory Testimony. “The

letters request that GSA Administrator Emily Murphy, GSA General Counsel Jack St. John, OPM acting Director Michael Rigas, OMB Senior Advisor Stephen Billy and OPM General Counsel Mark Robbins participate in transcribed interviews about the reported phone call with the Office of Legal Counsel and the accuracy of officials' testimony as to whether they had consulted legal advice on the planned merger." Jessie Bur, "[Trump officials made 'misleading' statements about changes to federal worker management, watchdog says," Federal Times, 07/07/20]

The GSA-OPM Merger, First Proposed In The Trump Administrations June 2018 Reorganization Plan, Received "Significant Backlash" From Federal Workers And Congress, Who Both Saw It As An Effort To Undermine Civil Service Protections. "The plan to move most of OPM's functions under GSA was first proposed in the administration's June 2018 reorganization plan and received significant backlash from federal employee groups and members of Congress as an attempt to cut back on civil service protections." Jessie Bur, "[Trump officials made 'misleading' statements about changes to federal worker management, watchdog says," Federal Times, 07/07/20]

The Legality Of The GSA-OPM Merger Was Under Dispute, Since Recent Government Funding Bills Specifically Blocked Agencies From Using Funding For Mergers Or "Transfer Of Functions." "Critics also questioned the legality of the move, and lawmakers used provisions in the most recent government funding bills to specifically prohibit any use of agency funding to facilitate a merger or transfer of functions." Jessie Bur, "[Trump officials made 'misleading' statements about changes to federal worker management, watchdog says," Federal Times, 07/07/20]

The Department Of Justice's Office Of Legal Counsel Told GSA, OPM, And The Office Of Management And Budget That The Trump Administration Didn't Have Authority To Execute The Merger. "According to the notes uncovered by the Project on Government Oversight, Stephen Engel, the head of the Department of Justice's Office of Legal Counsel, told legal representatives from OPM, GSA and the Office of Management and Budget that the administration lacked the legal authority to execute its plans." Jessie Bur, "[Trump officials made 'misleading' statements about changes to federal worker management, watchdog says," Federal Times, 07/07/20]

As The COVID-19 Pandemic Worsened, The Trump Organization Asked Emily Murphy's GSA For A Break On Lease Payments For Its D.C. Hotel.

April 2020: The Trump Organization Asked Emily Murphy's GSA To Give The D.C. Hotel A Break On Lease Payments During The Coronavirus Pandemic—The Agency Would Not Provide Comment On The Issue.

April 2020: The Trump Organization Asked The GSA For A Break On Lease Payments For Its D.C. Hotel Amid The Pandemic. "The Trump family business is asking the federal government to give President Donald Trump's hotel in Washington, DC, a break on its monthly lease payments during the coronavirus pandemic, The New York Times reported Tuesday. The Trump Organization has looked into changing the Trump International Hotel's lease payments to the General Services Administration in recent weeks, according to The Times, which cited people familiar with the matter." Chanelis Duster, "[NYT: Trump family seeks rent break for DC hotel from Trump administration," CNN, 04/22/20]

Donald Trump's Son Eric Trump, Who "Oversees The Family Business," Confirmed That The Trump Organization Asked The GSA About Lease Payment Relief—The GSA Would Not Provide Comment On The Issue. "CNN reached out to the Trump family and a spokesperson for the organization for comment but has not received a response. Eric Trump, one of the President's sons who oversees the family business, confirmed the request to the Times and said they were asking the GSA about relief the agency may be giving other federal tenants. [...] The GSA did not respond to requests for comment." Chanelis Duster, "[NYT: Trump family seeks rent break for DC hotel from Trump administration," CNN, 04/22/20]

Trump Properties Furloughed Almost 2,000 Workers In Multiple States, As Of Late April 2020. “CNN has reported that Trump properties have collectively furloughed nearly 2,000 employees across several states as businesses are forced to close to stop the spread of the virus.” Chandellis Duster, “[NYT: Trump family seeks rent break for DC hotel from Trump administration,” CNN, 04/22/20]

Prior To Becoming GSA Administrator, Murphy Was Involved In The Trump Administration’s Disastrous Response To The 2017 Hurricane Season.

While At GSA But Before She Was Administrator, Murphy Was Involved In The Trump Administration’s Disastrous Response To The 2017 Hurricane Season.

Prior To Her Confirmation As Administrator, Murphy’s Role As An Advisor At GSA Included “Monitoring GSA’s Efforts In Facilitating The Agency’s Support To Federal, State, And Local Agencies In Response To Hurricanes Harvey, Irma And Maria.” “As a Senior Advisor to the Administrator. I have been monitoring GSA’s efforts in facilitating the agency’s support to federal, state, and local agencies in response to hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria. Given my past work on disaster response. I’ve been able to suggest options such as redeploying the contracting policy office in the Office of Governmentwide Policy, if necessary, to provide surge capacity to support the disaster relief efforts. I’ve also worked to coordinate waivers with the Office of Procurement Policy to ensure GSA is best using the authorities it has to provide all possible support to affected areas. I have accompanied the Acting Administrator to the FEMA NRCC to ensure that GSA is best fulfilling its responsibilities to FEMA, other agencies, GSA employees, and the people of Texas, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.” [Murphy PreHearing Questions, Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Government Affairs, 10/05/17]

October 4, 1996: ABC News’ 20/20 Reported On A Videotape Of “Off Color Scenes” Taken At An RNC Headquarters Christmas Party. “BARBARA WALTERS: [...] Tonight, we bring you a perfect example - off-color scenes from a videotape that was given to ABC’s chief investigative correspondent Brian Ross by a woman you are about to meet, a long time Republican insider who says that the Republican Party officials don’t always practice what they preach. You’ll see some of these officials on this tape. Is their behavior offensive? Is it appropriate behavior in any workplace? - The $21.5 Million Lawsuit Was Brought By Fundraiser Deborah A. Henson And Two Other RNC Employees Who Alleged "Homosexuals And Blacks Are Regularly Mocked And That Officials Engage In Lewd Behavior." "Three former workers have offered a court a ghastly portrait of life inside Republican Party headquarters, alleging that homosexuals and blacks are regularly mocked and that officials engage in lewd behavior. The allegations, which the GOP broadly disputes, are included in a lawsuit by fund-raiser Deborah A. Henson that is seeking $21.5 million from the Republican National Committee. It alleges Henson was not given a full-time job in the party's finance division because she was overweight and female." John Solomon, "[Three Former RNC Workers Portray Headquarters as Lewd, Racist," Associated Press, 03/22/96]

Deborah Henson Claimed That RNC Staffers Called Black People "Homeboys" And Jewish People "Jew-Boys." "IPANNOUNCER: The party of family values and inclusion. BRIAN ROSS: To make fun of people who are black? DEBBIE HENSON: Call them homeboys. BRIAN ROSS: Who are Jewish? DEBBIE HENSON: Jew-boys." [20/20: "Baker [sic] After the Fall," ABC News, 10/04/96]

Allison Brigati Appeared On The 20/20 Segment To Defend The RNC, Claiming Henson's Claims Of Discrimination Were "Absolutely Ridiculous," "It Does Not Happen," And Henson Was Just "Angry" She Didn't Get The Job She Wanted:

DEBBIE HENSON: I remember I hadn't been there as a consultant but a month and I was sitting in the finance chairman's office and somebody asked me if I had heard Kevin's imitation of the homeboys and I said no. So they went and they shut the door and, you know, he started telling this story and- and talking like a- like a black person would talk and making the moves and making fun of their names.

BRIAN ROSS: So this is in the office of the finance chairman of the Republican National Committee in Washington, D.C.?

DEBBIE HENSON: Yes.

ALLISON BRIGATI: We don't tolerate harassment, we don't tolerate discrimination.

BRIAN ROSS: Racial slurs?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Absolutely not. We can't afford to.

BRIAN ROSS: [voice-over] Republican National Committee lawyer Allison Brigati says what Debbie Henson describes just never happened.

ALLISON BRIGATI: It's absolutely ridiculous. It does not happen.

BRIAN ROSS: You think she's making it up?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Absolutely.

BRIAN ROSS: Really?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Yeah. I do.

BRIAN ROSS: Why?

ALLISON BRIGATI: She's angry. She wanted the job here, she didn't get it. If all the things that Debbie

Henson has said have taken place, you would think that someone else besides Debbie Henson would have seen them and no one has seen them."

The Video Showed That RNC Employees Had A Black Security Guard Pose As D.C.'s Black Mayor "In An Apparent Spoof" About Soup Lines—20/20 Asked Brigati, "You Don't Think It's Denigrating To African-Americans?," And Brigati Replied, "I- I Can't Answer That."

Henson's Lawsuit Alleged An RNC Employee Was Known For A "Homeboy Impersonation"—And In The Video, RNC Employees Had A Black Security Guard Pose "In An Apparent Spoof" Of Washington D.C.'s Black Mayor. A 20/20 Correspondent Asked Alison Brigati, "You Don't Think It's Denigrating To African-Americans?," And Brigati Replied, "I- I Can't Answer That."

BRIAN ROSS: [voice-over] But that's not true according to the testimony of at least two people who used to work with Debbie Henson. One of them, Deputy Finance Director Mary Heitman, acknowledged that one of her employees did, as Henson alleges, perform a kind of homeboy impersonation. And look at last year's Christmas party tape. In an apparent spoof on the black mayor of Washington, the Republicans had a black security guard pose as a candidate for mayor, seeking advice from Kurt Anderson, the current political director of the Republican Party, who asked about the issue of people standing in soup lines.

BRIAN ROSS: How about the portrayal of your security man?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Benny? What about it?

BRIAN ROSS: You're really having fun at his expense, aren't you?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Oh, absolutely not.

BRIAN ROSS: You don't think it's denigrating to African-Americans?

ALLISON BRIGATI: I- I can't answer that."

The Video Showed The RNC's Finance Director Claiming "He's Able To Give Away Bundles Of Money Because He Found Some Non-Jewish Lawyers To Okay It." Allison Brigati Defended The Clip, "Some May Find It [Offensive To Jewish People], Some May Find It To Be A- A Spoof, Like I've Said Over And Over And Over Again."

BRIAN ROSS: [voice-over] Among other scenes Paskoff found offensive were those with references to Jews, like this one featuring Jews who are staff members celebrating Hanukkah.

5th EMPLOYEE: Oh, my God.

6th EMPLOYEE: A Rolex? Honey, how can you afford such things?

7th EMPLOYEE: Just a little walking around money.

BRIAN ROSS: [voice-over] And then there's this scene with finance director Mitchler.

ALBERT MITCHLER: Check with our two non-Jewish attorneys upstairs.

BRIAN ROSS: [voice-over] Saying he's able to give away bundles of money because he found some non-Jewish lawyers to okay it. @PGPH [interviewing] Do you find that offensive to people who are Jewish?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Some may find it so, some may find it to be a- a spoof, like I've said over and over and over again.

BRIAN ROSS: Just a spoof?

ALLISON BRIGATI: Yeah.

While An RNC Lawyer, Allison Brigati Also Threatened To Sue Two Artists Who Made Underwear Satirizing Then-House Speaker Newt Gingrich And Represented The Party In Part Of An Investigation Into 1996 Federal Campaign Activity.

While A Lawyer For The Republican National Committee, Alison Brigati Threatened To Sue Two Artists Who Made Underwear Printed With Then-Speaker Newt Gingrich's Face And His "Contract With America"—Defending The Artists, The ACLU Said The Underwear Was "A Classic Example Of Political Satire."

Allison Brigati Was A Deputy Counsel For The Republican National Committee From May 1994 To January 1998. [\[Allison Fahrenkopf Brigati\]](#), LinkedIn, accessed 11/10/20]

May 1995: Allison Brigati Sent A Letter On Behalf Of The RNC Demanding That Two Artists Cease Using The Face Of Then-House Speaker Newt Gingrich And The Full Text Of His "Contract With America" On Underwear They Were Selling. "It may be comfy and 100 percent cotton, but underwear bearing the text of the 'Contract With America' apparently rubs the Republican National Committee the wrong way. Two New York artists who created limited-edition silk-screened undies with House Speaker Newt Gingrich's face on the front and all 10 points of the GOP's agenda on the back have received a letter from the RNC threatening legal action. An April 20 letter from Allison Fahrenkopf Brigati, the RNC associate counsel, cautions artists Marshall Reese and Nora Ligorano that the 'contract' logo and text are protected by federal copyright and trademark." Nita Lelyveld, ["Contract With America Underwear Rubs Republicans the Wrong Way," Associated Press, 05/24/95]

The Letter Asked The Artists To Cease Using The "Contract With America" Language On The Underwear And Threatened The RNC Might Have To "Take The Appropriate Legal Action" If They Refused To Comply. "The letter asks the artists to immediately discontinue using the text in their work and adds that 'continued unauthorized use by your company will force the Republican National Committee to take the appropriate legal action.'" Allison Brigati's Family Is Deeply Connected To The Republican Party—Her Father Served A Historically Long Tenure As RNC Chair During Most Of The Reagan Years, Her Sister Was A High-Level White House Lawyer For George W. Bush, And Her Sister's Husband Was An Ambassador And Senior Official In The Bush Administration.

Allison Brigati's Father Frank Fahrenkopf Had A Historically Long Tenure As RNC Chair During The Reagan Administration And Created The "Political Playbook For 'Vice Industries'" While Head Of The American Gaming Association.

Allison Brigati Is The Daughter Of Frank Fahrenkopf, Who Has Been RNC Chair, President And CEO Of The American Gaming Association, And Co-Chairman Of The Commission On Presidential Debates.

"Allison Brigati is now the bank's "senior counselor for U.S. Affairs," serving right under Suzanne Rich Folsom, one of Wolfie's top advisers — and herself the wife of former International Republican Institute chairman George Folsom. You wouldn't know from the World Bank's own propaganda arm that Brigati is the daughter of Frank Fahrenkopf, the former GOP national chairman who is now president and CEO of the American Gaming Association and co-chairman of the Commission on Presidential Debates, which undemocratically squeezes rules to protect the two major parties from third-party challenges." Frank Fahrenkopf Was RNC Chairman For Six Of Ronald Regan's Eight Years As President, And When He Retired In 1989 His Tenure In That Role Was The Longest In The 20th Century And Second-Longest In Party History. "A lawyer by profession, Fahrenkopf gained national prominence during the 1980s when he served as chairman of the Republican national party for six of President Ronald Reagan's eight years in the White House (1983 to 1989). When Fahrenkopf retired in January 1989, he has served as chairman of the Republican National Committee longer than any person in the 20th century (and second-longest in the history of the party) and led the party through two successful presidential campaigns in 1984 and 1988." Allison Brigati's Sister Leslie Fahrenkopf Foley Was A White House Lawyer For George W. Bush For Five Years, Where She Counseled On Supreme Court Nominations For Justices Roberts And Alito—Brigati's Sister Is Also Married To A Two-Time GOP Gubernatorial Candidate And Former Ambassador And Senior Official In The Bush Administration.

Allison Brigati's Sister Leslie Fahrenkopf Foley "Spent Nearly Five Years In The White House Counsel's Office Under President George W. Bush," Where She Counseled On The Supreme Court Nominations For Justices John Roberts And Alito And Dealt With Federal Agencies. "A graduate of Yale and the University of Virginia law school, Foley worked at two of the nation's largest law firms and then spent nearly five years in the White House counsel's office under President George W. Bush. Her duties included dealing with financial agencies like the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board, and providing counsel on the nominations of U.S. Supreme Court Justices John Roberts and Samuel Alito. The two conservative justices have had a major impact on the nation's highest court in recent years in many high-profile decisions, including campaign finance, gun rights, the death penalty, President Barack Obama's health care law and religious freedom." Actually, no. The press is a source of information for the public. It's the public's job to hold officials accountable. Journalists, of course, like the way Obama put it because it makes them seem more important.

GSA General Counsel Trent Benishek—A Former White House Lawyer Who Helped Defend Trump Against Impeachment—Has A History Of Working For His Pro-Trump Uncle's Congressional Campaigns

GSA General Counsel Trent Benishek Was Previously A High-Ranking Lawyer For President Donald Trump's And Was Listed Among The Few White House Lawyers Who Defended Trump Against Impeachment.

Trent Benishek, The General Services Administration's (GSA's) General Counsel, Is "The Chief Legal Advisor To The GSA Administrator"—His Appointment Was Announced Less Than A Week Before The 2020 Presidential Election.

Trent J. Benishek Is The U.S. General Services Administration's General Counsel And Serves As "The Chief Legal Advisor To The GSA Administrator." "The U.S. General Services Administration today announced the appointment of Trent J. Benishek as general counsel. Benishek will oversee the agency's Office of General Counsel, which consists of 137 attorneys nationwide, and serve as the chief legal advisor to the GSA administrator." Benishek Now Manages 137 GSA Lawyers And “Is Likely To Be In The Middle Of Decisions About The Transition.”

Trent Benishek Now Manages 137 GSA Lawyers And “Is Likely To Be In The Middle Of Decisions About The Transition.” “Murphy and her allies are pushing back on Democrats’ claims that the Trump administration had political motives when it installed a new general counsel at the GSA five days before the election. Trent Benishek had been a special assistant in the Office of White House Counsel and was dispatched to the GSA soon after the agency’s previous chief attorney left to pursue a job in the private sector. Benishek now oversees 137 lawyers and, as the chief legal adviser, is likely to be in the middle of decisions about the transition.” Lisa Rein et al., [“White House, escalating tensions, orders agencies to rebuff Biden transition team,” The Washington Post, 11/09/20]

As Of November 9, 2020, It Was “Unclear” How Benishek’s Appointment Would Affect How GSA Ascertains The Presidential Election Winner. “Kate Shaw, law professor at Cardozo School of Law who worked in the White House Counsel’s office during the Obama administration, noted that a new general counsel was installed at GSA 10 days ago who came from the White House counsel’s office. It is unclear how, if at all, this could affect GSA’s ascertainment process.” Courtney Bublé, [“GSA Faces Pressure to Recognize Biden as Election Winner, Hand Over Keys to Formally Start Transition,” Government Executive, 11/09/20]

As The GSA's Inspector General Investigated The Controversy Over The Decision To Keep The FBI Headquarters Near Trump's D.C. Hotel, Robert Borden Gave Answers That Conflicted With Other GSA Officials—Shortly After, The IG Found That GSA Administrator Emily Murphy "May Have Misled Congress" In Failing To Disclose She Met With Trump About The FBI Headquarters.

July 2018: The GSA's Inspector General Investigated Meetings Between GSA's Officials And The Trump White House To Discuss Keeping The FBI Headquarters At Its Current Location, Where It Could Benefit Trump's D.C. Hotel.

July 2018: A GSA Inspector General Report Said Donald Trump Met With The Agency's Officials, Including GSA Administrator Emily Murphy, To Discuss Plans To Move The FBI Headquarters From Its Current Location Near Trump's D.C. Hotel. "President Donald Trump met twice with government officials who decided to build a new FBI headquarters across Pennsylvania Avenue from Trump International Hotel, according to a watchdog report Monday. But the General Services Administration's inspector general said officials refused to disclose what Trump said in the meetings before and after the decision to keep the FBI offices located near the hotel. [...] The agency's inspector general, Carol Ochoa, reported that GSA Administrator Emily Murphy met with Trump and others in the Oval Office on Jan. 24 to discuss the project. The "free flow discussion" was about demolishing the J. Edgar Hoover Building and rebuilding at the site, Murphy told the inspector general." - Donald Trump And The GSA "Abruptly Canceled" Plans To Move The FBI Headquarters From A Site Near Trump's D.C. Hotel, Sparking Allegations That Trump Was Trying To Block A Competing Hotel From Being Built On The Former FBI Site. "Trump has personally intervened in the most prominent real estate project in the agency's entire portfolio: the plan to build a new FBI headquarters that would allow the bureau out of the crumbling and insecure J. Edgar Hoover Building. During his first year in office, Trump and the GSA abruptly canceled a bipartisan plan to build a new suburban headquarters for the agency, infuriating Democrats who had worked more than a decade on the project and who alleged that Trump canceled the project so a competing hotel could never be built in place of the Hoover building, a site down the street from his hotel." Robert Borden Told The GSA's Inspector General That His Agency And The FBI Had Already Made A Decision About The Headquarters Well Before Meeting With The Trump White House.

Borden Told The Inspector General That, Before The White House Meetings, GSA And FBI Officials Had Agreed To Keep The FBI Headquarters At Its Current Location. "But Borden's reply to the inspector general's report said the GSA worked diligently with the FBI to ensure the project is managed in the country's best interest. The decision to stay at the current location resulted from months of meetings with new leadership at the FBI, he said. 'The GSA and FBI representatives attending the January 24 White House meetings had already agreed and decided to locate the new headquarters at 935 Pennsylvania Ave. NW in Washington, D.C.,' Borden wrote." August 2018: GSA's Inspector General Found That The Agency's Administrator Emily Murphy "May Have Misled Congress" In Failing To Disclose She Met With Trump About The FBI Headquarters.

In August 2018, GSA's Inspector General Found That Emily Murphy "May Have Misled Congress" In Failing To Disclose That She Met With Donald Trump To Discuss The FBI Headquarters Project. "Now the inspector general of the GSA says in a report that the head of the agency, Emily Murphy, may have misled Congress. During a hearing, she failed to disclose that she had met with President Trump at the White House to discuss the FBI project." Brian Naylor, "[Government Watchdog Raises Questions About Trump's Decision Not To Move FBI," NPR, 08/28/18]

The Inspector General's Report Said, "We Found That Murphy's Congressional Testimony Was Incomplete And May Have Left The Misleading Impression That She Had No Discussions With White House Officials In The Decision- Making Process About The Project." The House Select Committee On Benghazi’s Investigation Was “One Of The Longest, Costliest And Most Bitterly Partisan Congressional Investigations In History.”

The House Select Committee On Benghazi’s Investigation Was “One Of The Longest, Costliest And Most Bitterly Partisan Congressional Investigations In History.” “Ending one of the longest, costliest and most bitterly partisan congressional investigations in history, the House Select Committee on Benghazi issued its final report on Tuesday, finding no new evidence of culpability or wrongdoing by Hillary Clinton in the 2012 attacks in Libya that left four Americans dead.” [\[David Herszenhorn, “House Benghazi Report Finds No New Evidence of Wrongdoing by Hillary Clinton,” The New York Times, 06/28/16\]](#)

The Committee’s Investigation Cost Over $7 Million And The Final Report Found No “Professional Misconduct Or Dereliction Of Duty” Tied To The Fall Out From The Benghazi Attacks.

The Committee’s Investigation Cost Over $7 Million And There Was No “Clear Finding Of Professional Misconduct Or Dereliction Of Duty” In The Final Report. “But the lack of any clear finding of professional misconduct or dereliction of duty was certain to fuel further criticism of the length of the investigation — more than two years — and the expense, estimated at more than $7 million. It also bolstered Democrats’ allegations that the inquiry was specifically intended to damage Mrs. Clinton’s presidential prospects.” [\[David Herszenhorn, “House Benghazi Report Finds No New Evidence of Wrongdoing by Hillary Clinton,” The New York Times, 06/28/16\]](#)
