

John Landwehr, VP & Public Sector CTO, Adobe

John has been with Adobe for over eighteen years, working across enterprise product lines. His team is responsible for digital transformation solutions incorporating electronic documents, digital media, content management, analytics, information assurance, and collaboration technologies to support business efficiency & optimization, training & mission readiness, content security, and citizen & force engagement. He has provided testimony to Congress, visited all 50 states, received 9 security related US patents, previously held positions at NeXT and Apple, is a Certified Information System Security Professional, and a graduate of Northwestern University.