

Ken Witt, Biography for Local Governments Empowered by Modern HCM and ERP Cloud

Ken Witt currently serves as the St. Croix County Administrator. Ken is a recognized leader in government, with 25 years of experience in leading both city and county government.

When Ken's parents purchased him a Commodore 64 in the mid 1980's it started Ken off on a lifelong love of technology. Starting out in public accounting, just as accounting firms were learning to use customized accounting software packages with their clients, Ken flourished as a leader in accounting technology application.

Taking his skillset in technology and accounting, along with an advanced degree in Public Administration, Ken transitioned into local government. Ken has spent the past twenty-five years leading city and county governments, transforming the way government interacts with its resident with the use of technology. This led to many firsts of these organizations, such as first websites, first server applications, first social media applications.

In 2016, starting a new role as St. Croix County Assistant County Administrator, Ken was tasked with helping to manage the County's first ERP implementation. After competitive bidding the County selected Oracle Cloud. Following a two-year implementation, this technology solution has improved the efficiency of operations allowing for more time to be focused on the most important part of government, our residents.
