

Kevin has been in the enterprise asset management software industry most of his professional career in product management and product strategy capacities. For more than 23 years, Kevin has been globally responsible for product management, product marketing, and strategy functions for Infor EAM, Infor MP2, iProcure, Spear Technologies, and Energy Performance Management product families and has launched over 80% of it from an idea on a white board to a world-leading and award-winning solution set that it is today.