

CYRUS R. VANCE, JR.
DISTRICT ATTORNEY

DISTRICT ATTORNEY – NEW YORK COUNTY

Cyrus R. Vance, Jr., became Manhattan District Attorney in 2010, and rapidly established the Office as a national leader in the fight against cybercrime and identity theft. Recognizing that Manhattan is a hub for commerce involving customer identities and accounts, District Attorney Vance formed the Office’s Cybercrime and Identity Theft Bureau, a specialized unit that has successfully prosecuted hundreds of criminal cases involving cyber intrusions, identity theft, fraud, and insider larceny against New York residents and institutions

In 2016, District Attorney Vance opened the $10 million, 17,000-square foot Manhattan DA Cyber Lab—the first of its kind within a local prosecutor’s office in the U.S. The Lab houses more than 75 prosecutors, investigators, and analysts who work together on fast-paced, complex cyber investigations.

District Attorney Vance is a co-founder of the Global Cyber Alliance, a non-profit, cross-sector coalition focused on reducing digital vulnerability through the exchange of threat data and the development of open-source risk management solutions. To date, the Alliance has grown to include more than 180 global partners in over 20 different countries.
