

David Padrino joined the Hickenlooper administration in September 2014 and is the Lieutenant Governor's Chief of Staff and the Deputy Chief Operating Officer. David started and leads a range of the Governor's good government efforts, which aim to make government more efficient and effective through better performance planning, process improvement, talent development and a relentless focus on customers.

Before joining the administration, David spent seven years with the Boston Consulting Group (BCG), a strategy consulting firm that advises Fortune 500 companies and public sector organizations on topics such as strategy, operations, talent management and organizational transformation. Prior to BCG, David worked in Mayor Bloomberg's administration in New York City, focused on workforce and economic development. David joined city government after completing a Coro Fellowship in Public Affairs.

David received an MBA from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania and a BA in history from Vassar College. He is currently an advisor to the Governors Fellowship Program, the Governmental Entrepreneurial Leadership Accelerator and a participant in Leadership Denver.