

Mark Donchek is currently assigned as a Senior Investigator with the New York State Police Cyber Analysis Unit (CAU). In June of 2014 he was called upon to assist with the launch of the CAU and is responsible for helping to outline and direct a course for its growth. Mark Joined the New York State police in 2005 and prior to his current assignment as Senior Investigator has held ranks of Investigator, Sergeant, Technical Sergeant, and Trooper. Mark has approximately 20 years of combined experience in the fields of information technology, and law enforcement. As cyber threats were evolving to take advantage of the widespread adaption of modern internet technologies in the late 1990's he was developing applications to address these security concerns in the private sector. Prior to his tenure with the New York State Police he worked for technology and consulting groups in various roles of which most notable are web applications and database development.

He holds a Bachelor of Arts from the State University of New York at Albany, Certifications and training in Cyber Analysis, Advanced Oracle Concepts, Cyber Investigations, and Penetration Testing.