

Zbynek Krobot is an IBM Executive with 20 years of consulting experience in strategy, transformation, data analytics and change management.

At IBM, Mr. Krobot leads a portfolio of public sector consulting engagements, which are transforming and modernizing the federal government. He is the managing partner on business transformation and data analytics projects with the U.S. Office of Personnel Management, Security and Exchange Commission, Customs and Border Protection, Department of Education, Department of Energy and Department of Treasury.

As a thought leader on strategy and transformation, Mr. Krobot has presented at several government and industry conferences including the Primavera User Conference, the Association of Government Accountants Conference, the American Productivity & Quality Center Conference, and American Council for Technology and Industry Advisory Council Summit. He received the Primavera Excellence Award for the Public Sector – Government IT, and was awarded the Computer Week Fed 100 Award. Prior to joining IBM, Mr. Krobot worked at KPMG Consulting.