

A Utah native and Brigham Young University graduate, Loren has spent his career working in Taiwan, Utah, California, Boston, and Colorado building high-performing teams that plan, develop, and deliver some of the best software and cloud services in the world. His broad functional expertise spans product lifecycle management, program management, marketing & sales execution, business development & planning, and annual planning & operations, which has allowed him to utilize an operational approach to creating value for the organizations he works with.

In his free time, Loren enjoys skiing, biking, hiking, and camping, and is always looking for the next travel adventure to spend with family and friends.