

Matt Topper is the pioneering President and CTO of UberEther, Inc., a renowned cybersecurity company providing identity and access management and cybersecurity solutions to the U.S. Federal Government. With two decades of federal experience, Matt's leadership has propelled UberEther to industry prominence, maintaining a people-first approach to cybersecurity. He is a gifted communicator who simplifies complex topics like federal security controls and zero-trust strategy into easily digestible approaches.