

Mike Barretta is a Senior Manager of Solutions Architecture for Elastic focused on helping ensure the federal government receives its fair share of the future. The past ten years of his efforts have primarily revolved around technologies and techniques for deriving value from big data: mission-driven analytics, natural language processing, machine learning, and distributed search.