

Orlando Figueredo
Vice President, Business Development
Perspecta Inc.

Orlando Figueredo serves as vice president of business development for Perspecta's intelligence group. In this role, Figueredo is responsible for all growth activities for the group including developing a robust pipeline that aligns to the full breadth of Perspecta's capabilities, defending its competitive recompetes and driving new opportunities.

Figueredo has extensive experience managing large organizations focusing on delivering best-in-class solutions and strategies across U.S. public sector customers and providing consultative services across multiple technology centric and mission-critical environments.

Prior to joining Perspecta, Figueredo served as vice president of operations at SAIC where he was responsible for operational excellence for the national security customer group. Previous roles include vice president and general manager of the national security segment at DXC Technology where he led the strategic direction and growth across the Intelligence Community accounts.

From 2001 to 2016, Figueredo held several executive positions at Hewlett-Packard affording him extensive experience directing sales and delivery teams while leading efforts to provide technology consulting and thought leadership throughout the federal government.

Figueredo served as a communications computer officer during his 22 years in the U.S. Air Force retiring in 2001. Throughout his Air Force career, he occupied notable leadership positions including Chief, Research and Development Branch of the National Security Council where he managed the design, maintenance and modernization of the White House Situation Room and the National Security Council computer systems.

Figueredo holds a Bachelor of Science degree in applied mathematics from Chapman University and a Master of Science degree in software engineering from the University of West Florida. He serves on the advisory committee of the Intelligence and National Security Alliance, and is on the board of education of Emmanuel Christian School.