Livestream

8:30 AM Opening Remarks

8:35 AM Opening Keynote

HOLLY HAM, Assistant Secretary for Management, Department of Education

8:55 AM Evidence-Based Management

As technology makes data collect and analysis easier, there has been a growing movement to ground decision-making firmly in data. This panel will explore the shift to data-based management and examine how government leaders can implement this framework in their own agency.

TED MCCAN, Assistant to the Speaker for Policy, Office of Speaker Paul Ryan
CHRISTOPHER MIHM, Managing Director, Strategic Issues, Government Accountability Office

9:55 AM Government's Leadership Challenge

The 7,000 members of the Senior Executive Service have a more important role than ever in policy implementation. But the decades-old SES is also showing its age, raising questions about whether it can meet 21st century management challenges. This panel will look at the future of the government's senior leadership corps, from recruiting new talent to ensuring effective training.
