

Sean Frazier has worked in cybersecurity in the public and private sector for over 20 years including projects in the DOD, IC and civilian agencies such as DHS, DISA and many others. Sean has also worked with many brand name F500 customers on security initiatives ranging from mobile security, cloud security and all things in between. Sean also enjoys music, cars, technology history and good food. Really good food.