

Gene Shearer has served as the FEMA Logistics as the Supply Chain Advisor since September 2018. There he focuses on the impacts of disasters on private sector supply chains. He has served in the Defense Logistics Agency as an account manager and in the Army Material Command (AMC) as the Deputy to the Commander of the 401st Army Field Support Battalion in Bagram Afghanistan. Colonel Retired Shearer left the Army after over 23 years of active service as a multifunctional logistician where he served in a variety of command and staff positions in garrison and in support of combat operations.