

John Hawley is currently Vice President of Strategy for Security solutions at CA Technologies. He coordinates the definition of the CA Security vision and evaluation of new portfolio growth opportunities. John has been working in the security space for 15 years and is a frequent conference speaker, focusing on how enterprises embrace new trends to secure the business but also align security to the discussion in the boardroom.

John has been working with CA Technologies for 9 years, holding previous roles in Product Management and Technical Sales. Prior to CA, John founded and managed a venture funded SaaS company providing performance monitoring for cloud applications. Earlier, John managed a Solutions Engineering and Security teams at Internet services provider UUNET/WorldCom and consulting firm Ernst & Young, LLC.

John holds an MBA from the KATZ School of Business at University of Pittsburgh and a BS in Information Systems from Virginia Tech.