

Tim Li is a Director in Deloitte's Cyber Risk Services practice, which helps clients to be Secure, Vigilant, and Resilient in the face of an ever increasing array of cyber threats and vulnerabilities. Mr. Li has over 15 years of experience in the financial services industry in both the public and private sectors. He currently serves as the leader of Deloitte's Cyber Risks Services capabilities across their Federal financial services clients to include business development and client delivery in the areas of IT Risk Management, Identity & Access Management, Data Protection and Cyber Threat Management. He holds a bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Maryland.