

Leo Taddeo oversees Appgate's federal government business, working closely with sales and technical leadership to define and deliver zero trust solutions to meet the needs of the company's public sector customers. He also serves as Appgate's CISO, directing global security operations, crisis management and business continuity processes. He is the former special Agent in charge of the Special Operations/Cyber Division of the FBI's New York Office.