

Tara Murphy Dougherty, CEO, Govini

Tara Murphy Dougherty is the CEO of Govini. Prior to her role as CEO, Tara served as Govini's President of National Security, leading strategy and growth, and overseeing Govini's work with all federal clients. She has held leadership positions relating to technology and defense issues across industry, government, and the non-profit sectors. Prior to joining Govini, Tara led government business accounts at Palantir Technologies and served as Chief of Staff for Global Strategic Affairs in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Tara holds a BS from the Georgia Institute of Technology and an MA in Security Studies from Georgetown University. She is a Term Member of the Council on Foreign Relations.