

Following more than a decade of public service in the regulatory, health, and technology sectors, Ted Cotterill serves as Indiana Chief Privacy Officer, General Counsel for Indiana's data agency, and founding secretary and treasurer of StateRAMP. Ted's practice focuses on privacy, ethics, and governance issues presented by AI, big data, cloud services, and product development across various standards and regulatory frameworks. An advocate for innovation in government, Ted believes in the promise and value of StateRAMP to shift and enhance our cybersecurity culture, enabling continuous improvement in governments across the United States.
