Tom Simmons, Vice President, U.S. Public Sector at Citrix Systems Inc*. – Tom Simmons, has more than 30 years of information technology management experience, with a core emphasis on the Public Sector market. Tom leads the Go-to-market efforts for Citrix in U.S. Federal, State and Local government and acts as both a spokesperson and an advocate for public/private partnerships around technology initiatives such as IT Consolidation, Mobility, Flexible Work Environments, Cloud and Cyber Security. His understanding of the unique requirements of government customers, the systems integrators who support them, and the channel that services them, has helped drive Citrix's year-over-year growth and relevance in this market. Prior to joining Citrix, Tom served in senior management positions with companies such as Compaq, Trend Micro, and MicroWarehouse, driving their public sector solutions. Tom is a member of AFCEA, ACT-IAC and serves a member of the board of directors for USO Metro. Tom lives in Northern Virginia with his wife Terry and their two adult children in the area. He holds a Bachelors of Business Administration from the College of William and Mary.