

Traci DiMartini

Internal Revenue Service

Traci DiMartini is the Human Capital Officer for the Internal Revenue Service which is part of the Department of the Treasury. In her role as HCO, Traci oversees all IRS recruitment, hiring, benefits and training for the Service's 90,000 employees. She is a passionate advocate for federal workers and is proud to partner with the National Treasury Employees Union (NTEU) which represents the IRS bargaining unit workforce. Traci is an experienced Senior Executive and previously served as the Chief Human Capital Officer for GSA, Peace Corps and the EEOC before joining the IRS in June 2023. She has over 20 years of federal service and is an alumna of USDA's SES Candidate Development program and American University's Key Executive Leadership program. Traci received her Masters degree from Rutgers University's Bloustein School of Public Policy with a concentration in Labor Policy and is a proud native of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.