W. Rick Adams

Technology Solutions Manager, Faith Group, LLC.

Chief Technology Officer, Saefix, LLC.

Rick, a founding member of Saefix and Technology Solutions Manager for Faith Group, is a result driven product and solution designer with over 13 years of experience leading large-scale critical infrastructure and prototype-to-production technology initiatives. He excels at the rapid development of secure hardware and software-based solutions following industry best practice and standards, often in highly regulated and challenging environments.

He is a subject matter expert in a broad range of technologies and design patterns, including the planning and integration of complex enterprise networks, video analytics, thermal screening, video management and other IoT sensor systems. Since the COVID-19 pandemic first arose, Rick has personally led the design and development of infectious disease prevention solutions, focusing on people, process and technology used in a layered approach to addressing modern short- and long-term organizational challenges.
